

WIRELESS APPLICATION PROTOCOL TELEPHONE

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

5 In a wireless telecommunications network, when a wireless telephone user is placed on an on-hold status by the other party, additional information/data is downloaded (pushed) to the telephone user's display screen on their telephone using a wireless application protocol to the user's web-enabled telephone. There are thus parallel connections established -- the voice connection and the data connection downloading the web page.

::ODMA\PCDOCS\AUSTIN_1\166846\2
207:7047-P437US